

A Natural Gas Fireplace – The Natural Choice

Always wanted a natural gas fireplace?
What are you waiting for?

Warm up to a new natural gas fireplace

It's safe. With natural gas you don't need to worry about creosote buildup in your chimney, the risk of chimney fires, or stray sparks leaving burn marks on your carpet.

It's environmentally friendly. Natural gas greatly reduces the pollutants and particles emitted into the air compared to wood-burning fireplaces.

It's worry-free. When you turn off your natural gas fireplace, the fire is extinguished right away – so you can rest easy at bedtime without worrying about burning embers or hot ashes left in the fireplace.

It's economical. When you are enjoying your natural gas fireplace, you can turn down the thermostat for your central heating system and save money by not heating empty rooms. Look for an EnerGuide fireplace efficiency rating of over 50 percent for good energy efficiency.
